LAND TITLES.

The Necessity of Perfecting Title to Our Real Estate in Cook County Before We Can Levy and Collect Taxes.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

SIR: In the article published in your Monday issue, I urged the necessity of securing the abstract record books as evidence of our title, as a matter of convenience and precaution against loss, as the books now are the only evidence of consecutive titles which we can refer to, or rely upon.

I now wish to call attention to the necessity of securing those abstracts in some way, and making them prima facie evidence of title, by Legislative enactment, from the fact that, until we again put our titles on record, we cannot see how we can levy and collect taxes upon these lands for revenue. On examination of the different provisions of our Revenue law we shall find many provisions, where the owner of real estate taxed must be known before the taxes on his lands can be finally enforced by sale, and tax deeds made of same. Notice must be given upon the owner or occupant, or, in case of non-payment of taxes, and before any judgment can be entered against such land, the owner of the same may appear in court and file objections, &c., &c. Now, what evidence of the ownership of such lands will the court require? How can the real owner go before the court and file objections that the court can recognize his title and his right to file objections? Suppose several owners appear; is the court then to stay proceedings and investigate title? Again, suppose a judgment entered and the land sold for non-payment of taxes, and some gentleman land-shark, watching to perfect his tax title by a tax deed, is required by law (as he is) to give notice to the owner or occupant of such lands of his holding a certificate of sale, and when it will become absolute, which two years the owner can redeem; let us ask, here, what evidence of title the owner is to produce for the purpose of redemption, and to save his home from a tax deed? The owner, at present, has no legal evidence of title to show, either to the officer or in the chancery office, where he will be entitled to redeem, which will warrant such officer to receive his money and enter on the records that such land is redeemed. We shall find this right of redemption is an absolute right, and how can the county or city anticipate a successful collection of taxes on real estate, when so important an element of enforcing payment is wanting? Who will buy at tax sales? Or, if the old tax shark is on hand to bid, will he not be there with the understanding that he can levy greater blackmail than ever? for he, of all other sharks, will not give up his illegal claim without full, absolute, and legal proof of ownership; and he will be calls for a deed, and the officer informs him that the owner has redeemed, such kind of men will very pointedly ask—What owner? and how, in such case, can the officer protect himself? As it seems to us, in the present condition of affairs, there is no legal protection to either the real owner or to the officer who may receive his redemption money. Until some legal means are provided, (for proof of titles) this all-important right of redemption from tax-sales, as the law now exists, is absolutely suspended. Again, our law books are gone; we cannot refer to them for authority; but we submit, that we shall find, while the right of redemption is impossible to the owner, for want of proof of title, such right, being elementary, will relate back to the levy and sale, and thus we shall find the whole system of taxation, when there is no evidence of title in any one, will be declared, at least, very doubtful, and any attempt to levy and collect taxes for city and county revenue for our daily support will be successfully disputed.

Our suggestions above are only first impressions and given to the public for consideration, and are made for the purpose of calling into effect some way or means by which we may once more get upon the records as owners of our lands. If the above objections are not tenable, there are others which will be. The whole system of taxation without legal title being shown is full of difficulty.

What, then, is our shortest, cheapest, and quickest way? We have examined with care what is known as Judge Gary's bill, and do not hesitate to say that if such a bill will be needed, and its value will depend proportionately upon the facility it will afford to perfect title in chancery, cheaper and quicker than before, or without such enactment. We shall need that bill, and many others, before we perfect our titles of record in Cook County.

The primary objections to all chancery proceedings is the length of time and expense; and if, under Judge G.'s bill, it is contemplated that all titles must be perfected in chancery, we do not hesitate to say that it will not be near the necessity of any new law. The argument in support of such chancery proceedings is that only in a court of chancery can a title be declared valid; that no legislative enactment can make a good title to land. We concede all this at once, but we submit that we don't want a good title to our land given us anew. We are all just as much owners of our lands since the fire as we were before. The burning up of title deeds and records thereof, in nowise affects our title to these lands. The title was made to us by the deed, and when the deed was delivered, the title passed to the grantee, where it remains until again conveyed. The destruction of such deed in nowise affected the fee. The deed was simply evidence of where the title was. The Legislature has often declared (we find the same statute in evidence now) that when the original deed is lost, a certified copy shall be evidence of title. The legislature can declare anything evidence of title. The form of proof is nothing. We are only contending that, while the Legislature cannot make a title, it can declare what shall or may be evidence of title. On all this is based the whole system of taxation. Every man has to

UTAH.

The Prosecution of Polygamy—The Territorial Statute Against Adultery and Lascivious Cohabitation.

From Our Special Correspondent.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 2.

I write hastily and briefly, in the hope of staying in some measure the hurricane of denunciation that threatens to break down the present prosecution of polygamy in Utah, by driving Judge McKean from the bench on account of the use made of a certain Utah statute punishing adultery and lascivious cohabitation. It is assumed everywhere, by the newspaper press, that the intent of the framers of said statute was to except those vile practices from the pains and penalties imposed, when they were called "polygamy," and professedly practiced as religion. Allow me to show that this assumption is unsustained, and unsustainable by a particle of proof. The attempt, even, to sustain it was not made on the trial of Hawkins. There is nothing in the statute itself to show that those who made it did not mean exactly what it said—no more, no less—as McKean charged the jury. There is no proof but Mormon testimony that those men were polygamists, in theory or practice; and that, even, has not been addduced—doubtless from the conviction that it would be idle.

For, from the organization of the Mormon Church, in 1830, to August 29, 1852, six months after the approval of said statute, every Mormon leader, priest, publicist, teacher, preacher, agent, missionary, book periodical, conference, or gathering that alluded to the subject at all, classed polygamy as fornication, whoredom, wicked and unlawful connection, gross lasciviousness, doctrine of devils, false and corrupt, an abomination, a crime—almost to the identical language of said statute—denounced and repudiated it indignantly; denied that the Church believed, taught, or practised it; and characterized the charge that it did as a vile calumny of its enemies. Joseph Smith, and several leading Mormons, on one occasion, at Carthage, Ill., made oath before a civil magistrate to this effect. Suppose these men do now make oath to the contrary, of what weight is it? Can it be regarded as evidence? On their own showing, is it not a more reasonable assumption that they meant precisely what they said in the statute than that they did not?

And, if there is to be such extraordinary consideration shown these Ku-Klux, ought there not to be some little shown their victims? The Mrs. Hawkinses; what of them? Are they to have no redress, ever, for the innumerable outrages inflicted on them? This one bore seven children to her husband before she was told she must give place to a younger woman. And then, insisting being turned out of the house, she had to see that house made a "crib" of, in her very presence, year after year. Are not such things worthy of some attention? Or is Brigham Young, indicted by the grand jury for divers and sundry murders, fleeing from justice with a lot of his concubines, under guard of the Nauvoo Legion, entitled to more sympathy and consideration than those, his dupes and victims? I know not. DOUGLASS.

FRENCH PRESS.

Another Scandal—How a Republican Deputy and Journalist Borrowed from an Imperial Prince.

Paris Correspondence of the London Daily News.

The following paragraph in the Francais, which at first sight would probably be thought a canard, is rendered interesting by the subjoined answer:

"A very singular piece of news has come to our knowledge. Prince Napoleon's man of business has served a writ upon M. Guerout, requiring immediate payment of the sum of 50,000 francs, which the Prince lent him on condition that the Opinion Nationale should follow a line of policy which it has since completely quitted. The affair is likely to come on for hearing immediately after the vacation. We cannot doubt that M. Guerout will be able to reply victoriously to the claim of the Prince, whom he was wont openly to proclaim his friend."

Without an hour's loss of time, the Opinion Nationale, admitting the fact of the loan, offers the following explanation:

"The exact truth is this: Four years ago, a combination connected with affairs of exchange personally having compelled M. Guerout to have recourse to the credit he enjoyed with his friends, Prince Napoleon offered to advance him a sum of 50,000 francs as a loan. This was, therefore, it will be observed, a purely personal service, and it was rendered in a business form, security being deposited and interest at 5 per cent stipulated for half-yearly, which interest has always been punctually paid. In short, it was a loan made on just the same conditions as loans which bankers make every day to the public. At the end of September, 1871, only three months ago, M. Guerout wrote to his creditor that he intended to pay off the debt early in November. To this offer Prince Napoleon replied on Oct. 10, by the writ to which the Francais alludes. We leave the public to judge how far such conduct is 'princely.' As to the allegation that a change in the line of politics was imposed upon the Opinion Nationale in return for the loan to its editor, a very few words will show the reason. That it has been misinformed the Opinion Nationale has over and over again declared and frequently when it was perilous to avow it, and its sympathy for the Republican; it used its utmost endeavors to facilitate the transition from the Empire to the Republic, but never concealed its preference, and if now, at the moment when the Bonapartists are striving to restore the throne of Napoleon III., the Opinion Nationale combats their manœuvres with all its might; and if it dwells particularly upon the want of capacity, energy, decision, and candor of the sovereign who has come to grief in the way that all the world knows; it is evident that this journal only repeats, though doubtless more vehement language than it has used while in one form or another, it has expressed for the last twelve years. It may here be added that Prince Napoleon was very much of this opinion himself. At the very beginning of the campaign, when the Emperor, quartered at Metz, fatigued our ears with stories of marches and countermarches, orders and counter-orders, Prince Napoleon said to those about him (see Mets Campaigne & Negotiations, by a Superior Officer, page 43 of the German) will give us battle, but we shall never take the initiative of one, because to offer battle requires a plan, and an idea, and we have neither the one or the other." Prince Napoleon, who said this, well knew from numerous conversations with us that the Opinion Nationale would support the Republic under the influence of public opinion, which we will neither specify nor characterize. Prince Napoleon desires to prove that he completely forgets old friendship. So be it. Just as movement is proved by moving, the Opinion Nationale will show its independence, past, present, and future, by not deviating a hair's breadth from the line it has followed for twelve years, and which may be defined thus: 'Progress by liberty toward a new and definitive Republic.'

This explanation will naturally be the occasion of varied comments. It is, to say the least, unfortunate that a Republican Deputy and journalist, having occasion to borrow money, and having good bankers' security to offer, should not have found some other friend than an Imperial Prince to lend it to him.

The Oxyhydric Light.

The production of a light, the nature and cost of which should enable it successfully to supersede the yellow glimmer generally obtained from ordinary coal gas, has long been a favorite study with chemists and others. The combination of oxygen and hydrogen gases, variously treated, has formed the basis of most inventions having this object in view. But although in many instances the results of practical experiments have demonstrated the fact that such a light can be produced, yet an exposition of that fact on a commercial scale has only recently been effected. This has been due, either wholly or in part, to complication in manufacture, difficulty in application to purposes of general utility, and costliness of production; in fact, the chief difficulty has always been the expense attendant upon the manufacture of the oxygen gas, until the recent discovery of a means of producing that gas at about the same cost as hydrogen. Advantage has, therefore, been taken of this circumstance to produce a cheap and efficient light—called the oxy-hydric light—by the admixture of the two gases in certain proportions. Common hydrogen is highly carbureted and mixed at the highest attainable degree, in the proportion of about two of the former to one of the latter, which burns with a pure white flame. According to statement in Engineering, this system of lighting is about to be adopted in Vienna and Brussels. In London, too, a company is now being formed for its introduction into Anglo-American towns and cities; it being found, on an examination of the matter, and a comparison of the purity and intensity of the oxy-hydric flame with ordinary coal gas, that the former is greatly superior.

The Hoosac Tunnel and its Prospects.

From the Boston Traveller.

The work upon the Hoosac tunnel is progressing steadily but not very rapidly. Before it is finished, the Legislature will be called upon to consider the claims of the contractors for an extension of time and for damages. By the terms of their contract their work is to be finished in July, 1875, but at the present rate of progress it will not be completed until a year or two later. The extension of time will be sought because of the lack of railroad connection for many months consequent upon the destruction of the track by the great storm of two years ago. This made it necessary to transport a large amount of materials by wagons, causing delay in the work, and laying the foundation for a claim for damages, also. There will be another and probably larger claim for damages because of the failure of water power to do the work guaranteed by the State, and the contractors will ask pay for the increased expense of working the drills by steam and cost of the improvements. It is possible that there will be a movement for legislation next winter, that will give them what may be found justly their due on their claims, and grant them an extension of time, or if the people desire to have the work completed speedily, to pay such a bonus as will remunerate them for the increased cost of working larger gangs. The brothers P. and T. Shandly, of Montreal are the only parties with whom the State has contracted to complete the tunnel, but it is quite probable that other parties are interested with them. The Tammany politician, Judge Shandly, is their brother, and it had been understood that Tweed and Sweeny, of New York furnished them the half million of dollars with which they began the work upon their contract. As the commonwealth is retaining that amount of the contract money until the work is completed, it is not improbable that the great New York financiers have a claim or claimants and the money when paid upon the Shandlys for this money when it shall have become due. Perhaps the New York lawyers, who are seeking to ascertain what has become of the money those two operators have appropriated, will think it advisable to make inquiries in this quarter, though we suspect that they will find no clue to aid them.

A Convict's Fight for Liberty.

A prisoner in the Penitentiary of Bruchsal, a town in the Grand Duchy of Baden, has recently succeeded in forcing down the greatest portion of the prison. Carl Schwalbe, a notorious desperado, was incarcerated for robbery with violence. He wrenched off a portion of his iron bedstead, and broke open his cell-door. Shouldering the instrument of escape, he deliberately marched through the corridors unmolested, and made for the jailer's room. He forced the door and entered. He arrayed himself in the jailer's overcoat and hat, and exchanged his fragment of bedstead for the official's sword. Then he was stalking through the building on his way to the outer gate, he was discovered. An alarm was given. He made for the chapel, scaled the wall inside, crawled through a window, and climbed to the roof of the building. He commenced himself throwing papers, forced out a number of stones, and hurled them down upon his pursuers. Several shots were fired at him without effect. He called out to the soldiers below, declaring that unless they would give him a chance of escape, he would fire the jail. On their continuing to discharge their revolvers, he deliberately lighted a match, gathered together some dry splinters of wood, and set fire to the roof of the chapel. The flames spread rapidly, and the entire building was soon ablaze. The fire-brigade was called out, but before the fire was got under, a large part of the chapel and the offices fell a prey to the flames. Schwalbe fled to an adjoining building, and the guards for a long time sought in vain for the desperado. At length he was discovered hidden under the floor of a lookout at the summit of a lofty tower. Sword in hand, he fought like a demon. Riddled with shot and slashed with sabre cuts, he still kept his assailants at bay. At last they rushed upon him in a body, and pitched him from the tower, a height of six stories, into the prison court. Marvellous to relate, he was not killed. He fell into a cart-load of rubbish, but in a day or two afterward he died of his wounds.

The Vienna Orchestra Dissolved.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel, Nov. 6.

There was rather a sensational termination to the successful season of the Vienna Strauss Orchestra at the Opera House, on Saturday evening. On the close of the concert eleven of the fair performers, influenced by the intention of remaining in Milwaukee instead of taking the train for Cincinnati, under Manager Rullmann. Of course, this created considerable excitement in the depot where the train was in waiting, and the manager held the train for some time, in hope of a compromise with the fair accomplices. The latter declare that Mr. Rullmann had not honored their contract, and had treated them rather rudely besides. In this as it may, the manager found himself unable to effect an understanding, and, at last, was obliged to send on by train those of the young ladies who stood by him. These were ten in number, headed by the accomplished violinist, Mlle Ambrose.

The remaining eleven, the nucleus of the orchestra, expressed themselves open to engagement under Miss Bischschmidt, who had been their leader in Germany. On leaving the hall they ordered their coachmen to convey them to the Republican House, instead of the Newhall House, where they had been stopping under Rullmann.

Yesterday several conferences failed to effect a reconciliation, the ladies declaring that they would not appear under the auspices of Mr. Rullmann's management, unless obliged to do so by law. The portion of the orchestra represented by the secessionists comprises one first violin, two second, one flute, one piccolo, bass-viol, two violincellos, the pianist and drummers. The leading lady yesterday informed the reporter of the Herald that they had the choice of two engagements, but requested that as little as possible should be said about the estrangement, until this or when the matter would be definitely settled.

Northwestern Type Foundry,

MILWAUKEE.

This foundry has now on hand fifteen tons of English and German type. It consists of all sizes, from nonpareil to pica. A half dozen dresses for large sized papers can be furnished on short notice, with leads, etc., to match. The Milwaukee Sentinel, News, and Evidenzier are using type made at this foundry, and pronounce it the equal of any manufactured at this foundry. For beauty of face and finish, as well as workmanship, the type made at this foundry will compare favorably with the type sold by any other foundry in the world. I have also several first-class presses and rollers for sale.

Half a dozen electrotype foundry is attached to the type foundry.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RELIEF AND AID DIRECTORY.

Information for Applicants for Relief.

The city is divided into five districts, and each district is subdivided into sub-districts, as follows:

DISTRICT NO. 1.—This includes the whole of the North Division. The distributing offices are at Lincoln Hall, on Lasalle-st., near Fullerton-av., and at Engine-house No. 6, on Larrabee-st. Sub-District No. 1 includes all north of North-av. Sub-District No. 2 includes all south of North-av.

DISTRICT NO. 2.—This includes that portion of the West Division lying north of Kinzie-st. Sub-District No. 1 includes that portion lying north of Chicago-av. and the distributing office is at the corner of same and the Milwaukee road. Sub-District No. 2 runs from Chicago-av. south to Kinzie-st., and the distributing office is at Engine-house No. 4, on Franklin-st., near Illinois-st.

DISTRICT NO. 3.—This includes that portion of the West Division bounded north by Kinzie-st., east by the river, south by Twelfth-st., and west by the city limits. Sub-District No. 1 includes the territory east of Reuben-st., office on Madison-st. opposite the court-house. Sub-District No. 2 west of the river, and the office is at the Church corner of Park-av. and Indiana-st.

DISTRICT NO. 4.—This includes all of the West Division south of West Twelfth-st. Subdistrict No. 1 is bounded north by West Twelfth-st., east by the river, south by C. B. & Q. R. R., and west by Centre-av., office in Mitchell-st. Sub-District No. 2 is bounded north by West Twelfth-st., east by Centre-av., south by the city limits, and west by the city limits; has its office on Mitchell-st., near Paulina.

DISTRICT NO. 5.—This includes the whole South Division. Sub-District No. 1 is the territory north of Twenty-second-st., office at the Second Presbyterian Church, corner Wabash-av. and Eldridge-court. Sub-District No. 2 has an office at the corner of Archer-av. and Michigan-st., and its territory is that part of the South Division lying west of the Illinois Central Railroad, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, and south of the river.

Sub-District No. 3.—All that portion of the South of the city of Chicago. Superintendent C. C. Paschock. Office, corner Hyde Park-av. and Thirty-first-st. Relief to be aided by this agency are such as have, in consequence of the fire, left the city, and not those rendered destitute by the fire, but remaining in the city at the time of the fire. An agent is appointed in each town where such persons are now living, to receive applications and distribute relief.

Committee on Charitable Institutions.

The Committee on Aid to be extended to existing charitable institutions is as follows: Hon. Perry H. Smith, Hon. Mason, Henry W. King, Marshall Field, John V. Farwell and W. F. Goodhue. Applications in this behalf may be presented to either of the above named gentlemen, who will bring the same before the committee at their regular meetings.

Shelter Committee.

T. M. Avery and T. W. Harvey, Headquarters at 69 West Washington-st.

Committee on Sick, Sanitary, and Hospital Measures.

Dr. H. A. Johnson, Chairman. Headquarters, after Monday, November 6, at Standard Hall.

SPECIAL RELIEF.

The distributing office for special relief is at the Church of the Messiah, Wabash-av. near Ruhland court. Applicants must come with applications endorsed by the pastor of the church where they belong, or the property solicitor of the district, or resident society of which they may be members, who shall have examined into the case of each.

STANDARD HALL.

The Executive Committee of the Relief and Aid Society sits daily and all day, at Standard Hall, to supervise and direct the distribution of relief. Sub-committees who report, every evening, in public executive session. Bills against the society should be presented at the office of the Auditor, Standard Hall, between 10 a. m., and 3 and 5 p. m.

All goods that may have reached the Relief Society consigned to individuals or to other societies, will be delivered to the consignee upon application.

NOTICE.

Committee for Special Relief.

Church of the Messiah, corner Wabash-av. and Hubbard-court.

This Committee will be in session to receive applications for relief from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day. The terms of this committee is limited to cases where sufferers satisfactory reasons, the applicant cannot obtain relief by application at the regular office. Every applicant for relief to this committee should present an application in writing, stating name, present residence and residence before the fire, number of family, and whether each applicant was burned out, and the means of support are open to such applicants, and from other sources. Such applicant should also set forth fully and minutely the exactness the relief which is asked for, stating kind, and number, and quantity, with sufficient distinctness to enable the case to be understood by those to be named. Care is needed in this respect, as mistakes are constantly occurring in the supplies sent, from the want of the proper statement as to size and dimensions and articles required. Each application should be certified by some clergyman, physician, superintendent of society, or some other person acquainted with the circumstances of some organized benevolent association, or by a member of the Relief Society of this Committee, or by some visitor appointed by this Committee, who shall state in such certificate that the condition and needs of the applicant have been duly investigated to the satisfaction of the person so certifying, and no application will be entertained or considered. Blank forms of Certificates can be obtained of the Committee, which will conform to the requirements herein set forth will save both the applicant and the Committee much trouble and delay.

Chairman.

ROBT LAIRD COLLIER,
Secretary.

Convict Labor to Let.

The undersigned, Commissioners of the Illinois Penitentiary, hereby offer the labor of from fifty (50) to one hundred (100) convicts, and solicit bids for same. These men have been variously employed—wagonmaking, schoolthing, machine, and foundry work.

Contracts are to commence after the bids are accepted, and to continue for a term of years, as may be upon, not to exceed eight years; each bid to be accompanied by a good and sufficient bond in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with sureties to be approved by one of the Commissioners or the Warden.

The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any bid which in the judgment may not in the interest of the State.

For particulars we refer to the Commissioners, which can be had on application to Elmer Washburn, Warden of the Penitentiary, to whom all bids are to be sent, and who will answer any inquiries addressed to him.

The bids will be opened at 1 o'clock p. m. on the first day of November, 1871, in the presence of such bidders as may choose to attend.

It is a noteworthy fact that in every locality near Chicago the representatives of the principle of improvement were elected. In Lake View, which has always been considered a rather slow-going place, the regular candidate was Mark B. Chase, a man of real ability in favor of improvements and a worthy candidate in every respect. Yet he was nominated by those who have opposed the Lake Shore Drive, and similar important works, to defeat Mr. Belden F. Culver, the most progressive man in the town. Mr. Culver was subsequently nominated as an independent candidate, and elected simply on the improvement platform. Lake View may therefore now be expected to set a worthy example to the North Division.

ILLINOIS.

Pontiac—For Congressman-at-Large, Beveridge 277; Hayes, 162.

Evanston, Cook County—Beveridge, 336; Hayes, 4. This is Beveridge's home. For State Senator, Cashe, 361; Mundy, 1.

Jacksonville—Beveridge, in city, 544 majority. Duck Island—Beveridge, 29 majority in the city, and about one in the county.

Moorison—Beveridge, 37. Hayes, 92.

Elgin—Beveridge, 140 majority. County Democratic by 600.

Aurora—Beveridge, 526 majority.

Joliet—Sharp, for Congress, 33 majority in the city, and about 1,200 in the county. Beveridge about the same.

Fairbury—91 majority.

Canton—Beveridge, 92 majority.

Orland, Cook County—Beveridge, 114; Hayes, 2.

Yorkville, Kendall County—Beveridge, 82 majority.

Stephenson County—Freeport gives Beveridge 45 majority; West Point gives him 61; Rock Run and Lena, 61 majority.

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 5.—At the election in this city Hayes' majority was 179; Leland's, 116; R. W. Raymond's majority for County Treasurer, 126; Adam Hogan's majority for County Surveyor, 154. Only 359 votes were cast—less than half a full vote.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 5.—The whole vote of this county is probably inside of 1,000. Kankakee cast four dozen more Beveridge, 100 majority; Sharp a little less. McIntosh carries the county.

Peoria, Oct. 4.—The election passed off very quietly here yesterday, and a fair vote was polled. For Congressman-at-Large the returns are meagre and unreliable. Hayes has probably carried the county by small majorities. The vote against Beveridge in this city was nearly 200 in excess of the opposition to Peoria on the State House question. The Republicans have elected their county ticket by from 600 to 800 majority. The Democrats have made a decided gain in the city, which, two years ago, gave Bartels (Democrat) 456 majority. This year it gives his opponent, Breidenbach, 941 majority. Republican gain of over 800. The Republicans will elect their entire fire-proof ticket, with the exception of Alderman in the upper and lower wards. The Democrats elect Otto. This is regarded as a grand Republican Triumph, as the city has always been hopelessly Democratic.

Quincy, Ill., Nov. 5.—Official returns from all but five townships in Adams County show that Beveridge's majority is 600 for Hayes in Adams County. The remaining townships will not increase the majority to over 600. The Democratic ticket is elected by about 300.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 5.—The vote of yesterday in this county was very light. From returns so far received, it is safe to say that the county goes Republican by a majority of about 800. Out of 1,500 votes, the Democrats have probably cast over 600. Kerrick, for Representative to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Colonel R. H. Rose, and Beadle, for County Treasurer, are both about the same.

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 5.—Warren County—In the towns Beveridge's majority is 780. The five to hear from will reduce the majority to near 700. Beveridge and Sharp are elected. Hall, for Congress, official—Beveridge, 1,598; Hayes, 943.

Huntsville, Ill., Nov. 5.—Election returns from the interior of the State come in very slowly. It is thought that the central and southern portions of the State have gone Democratic vote. Hayes, Democrat, is elected to Congress over Beveridge, (R.) St. Clair County, that always gives from 800 to 1,000 Democratic majority, Hayes 1,500. Beveridge's majority is light, not barely a two-thirds having been cast, and it will be some days before enough returns are in to determine who is elected. The contest between Hayes and Beveridge will be close. Sangamon County gives a Republican majority, and elects the entire Democratic County ticket.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 5.—Peoria County has probably given Hayes, the Democratic candidate, a small majority, on account of local hostility to Beveridge. The county, however, elects Republican by one Police Magistrate, and a few Aldermen for the first time in years. Brotherson's majority over Burke for Mayor is 341.—A Republican gain of about 168.

There is great excitement among Democrats and Republicans both, as the turn of the election was a surprise to both sides.

Joliet, Nov. 5.—Every town in Will County has been heard from officially but one, and that will change the result but little either way. The following is the result by majorities: Hemp, Haight, Hamilton, for Congress, over Lorenzo Leland, Democrat, 66; John F. Daggett, Republican, for State Senator, over A. Metcalf, Democrat, 1,004; and Andrew J. Price, Republican, for County Treasurer, over John T. Rand, Democrat, 1,157.

WISCONSIN.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—Indications are that the Republican majority will exceed 10,000. The Democrats will not elect more than one-fourth of the thirty-three Senators, including six holding over. The Republicans will probably have sixty-five out of the hundred members. In the district Gurnee, Democrat, beats Hutchinson for the Assembly 48.

Fond Du Lac, Nov. 7.—Washburn's majority in this city is 271. W. H. Hiner, Republican, is elected senator and A. Cochems, Republican, Assemblyman.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—The returns are in from most points reached by the telegraph, and indicate the election of the Republican ticket by from 800 to 1,000. Governor Austin runs some behind his ticket, as also does Dunnison for Congress. The Democrats have elected the Scandinavian vote for Falk, St. Paul and Ramsey County give Young, Democrat, for Governor, only thirty-two majority, while Rindl, Democrat, for Lieutenant Governor, has a majority over Yale of 375, and Wilkin, for Congress, over Dennison. The Republicans elect Heard for Senator in the Twenty-third District by 253 majority, and Dodge for Senator in the Twenty-fourth District by 253 majority. Republican majority in the Twenty-fourth District, 1,250. Republican majority on joint ballot is 19, being a gain of 4 members.

Newark City gave Parker 826 majority, being a Democratic gain of about 1,000 over the charter election of last month.

Newark, Nov. 8.—State returns, since morning, make the majority about 2,500 for Parker. In the Legislature the Republicans have a majority in both branches. In the Assembly 38 Republicans and 22 Democrats; in the Senate 14 Republicans and 12 Democrats

North Carolina ...recently repudiated the party, and that too ...under gross provocation from the hot-headed ...and rash factions of Republicans in that ...State.

The great practical fact established by the ...elections of 1871, is that the country has, with ...unexampled unanimity, declared that the ...rule of the Republican party is to continue, ...and that, under no circumstances whatever, ...will there be any acceptance or toleration of ...the Democratic party in the control of either ...State or National Governments. A Democ...ratic nomination for President in 1872 will ...be but an absurd farce, a senseless act of im...pudence, and an insulting appeal from public ...opinion. It will serve only to render certain ...the election of never less than 300 votes ...by the Republican Convention. Having ...ceased to have any claim upon the respect of ...the people; having irrecoverably lost all confi...dence of the people; being unable to rally ...enough men to elect anybody to any office, ...what possible use is there in keeping up the ...offensive organization cursed with ...the name of Democratic party? The sober citizens of Chicago want about their business yesterday with a sense of se...curity that they have not enjoyed since the ...pumping works were again set in motion. ...They read in their morning papers that the ...Fre-Proof ticket had been elected by more ...than ten thousand majority; that the old ...corrupt Board of Supervisors had been abol...ished, and their places filled by high-toned ...and responsible Commissioners; that the old ...ring of "nineteen" in the Common Council, ...who had put through every infamous job ...that had been brought before them "with ...money in it," had been broken in pieces; that ...everything which could be hoped to follow ...in the next two years from the election of an ...incorruptible city and county government ...had been fully assured by the work of Tues...day. So absorbing was the interest felt in ...our local campaign that the important elec...tions in New-York, Wisconsin, and elsewhere, ...and even the election of a Congressman-at-...Large from Illinois, were hardly mentioned ...when men met each other on the street. And ...now we lay hold of the first task before us ...with lighter hearts and stronger hands than ...ever.

Japan has already imitated our greenbacks, ...their irredeemable "kinsatz" being as near as the ...Japanese can get to our currency, both in char...acter and in the pronunciation of name. Now ...they propose to import our system of internal rev...enue, or something approaching to it, and have ...closed a contract with General George B. Wil...liams, Second Deputy Commissioner of Internal ...Revenue, who goes out to set up the machinery. ...It is flattering to American vanity that our insti...tutions are imitated by a newly-awakened people, ...but we should be sorry to see our political vices ...also copied by the new breed of Japanese office-...holders.—New York Tribune.

The honor is not all on our side. Japan has ...for several centuries had a protective tariff, ...and has had an exclusive home market. Ten ...years ago we copied the Japanese system, ...and it was no more than decent reciprocity ...that the Japanese should copy what is equally ...absurd in our system. The Chinese, how...ever, had the greenback system of money ...1,000 years ago, so we are hardly entitled to ...the honor of that discovery.

If it be really true that Mr. Fish, after outliving a hundred rumors of resignation, is at length to succumb to the hundred and first, and that, to succeed him as Secretary of State, the President has resolved to ap...point Mr. George William Curtis, then it may be remarked that the President has made a very judicious selection. Mr. Curtis has a national reputation as an accomplished writer and speaker upon social and political subjects. He has also become well known, of late, as an earnest advocate of reform of the Civil Service, and as the Chairman of the Commission appointed to expedite that reform. He has earned the preferment which General Grant is about (if rumor speaks truly) to confer upon him, by being both an able and steadfast defender of what is best in the present administration, in the columns of Harper's Weekly; but of course this is not the principal consideration which will prompt the general popular approval of his appointment.

THE NORTHWEST.

ILLINOIS.

The great Illinois River dam at Henry was completed October 21, and there is now fully six feet of water on Treetop Bar—that bar which for so many years has been so serious an impediment to the navigation of the Upper Illinois during seasons of low water. The dam is 6 feet high. The lock, which is 75 feet wide and 225 long, will soon be completed. The whole work—the dam, with its extensive wings, and the lock—will cost about $200,000.

—The photographic establishment of J. H. Chamblin, at Sterling, was destroyed by fire on the 31st inst.

—The elegant residence of J. E. Conniger, at Alton, was burned on Sunday last.

—Robert Brisbach, a well-known citizen of Cairo, was killed in a saloon on the 6th inst., by a stranger named George Moser. A dispute over a game of cards was the cause of the tragedy. Moser was in the saloon when Brisbach entered, and was talking to some person about playing cards. After listening for a few moments, Brisbach rebuked the conversation, and challenged Moser to play for a wager. Moser accepted the challenge, but, after he was seated, said he would not play for money, but let the result of the game decide which should buy the beer for the company. Brisbach took Moser at his word, and began to use the vilest language. Moser decidedly uncomplimentary language, and would have struck him if the bystanders had not interfered. After the excitement had cooled down, Brisbach invited Moser to drink a glass of beer with him, and the invitation was accepted. While the company were standing at the bar Moser said to Brisbach: "You can say what you please to me, but it would not have been well with you if you had struck me; you would have been a dead man." This remark seemed to freeze Brisbach, who immediately threw off his coat and struck Moser three or four times. If you strike me again I will stab you," cried Moser. Brisbach did strike again and sprang toward Moser, who made good his threat by stabbing his assailant under the left arm, severing an artery, causing his death an hour after.

IOWA.

Mr. Dailey, of Osceola, raised 18,000 pounds of grapes off of one and a half acres of ground. They brought him $600.

—An attempt was made to murder Peter Walker, a Sioux City baker, last Thursday. A shot was fired through the window, which barely missed him. No clue to the perpetrator.

—The Western Iowa Baptist Academy has been duly incorporated, and is located at Denison, Crawford County. It has already opened its fall session, and is under the supervision of Professor G. W. Gunnison.

—In Tama County the hog disease prevails to an alarming extent. One man has lost fifty, another thirty, and a third eighteen, while most of the farmers in that section have lost from six to a dozen. No one seems to be acquainted with the disease, or to know what to do with it.

—Chickasaw County has a sensation. A lady of that region, named Ives, went on a visit to Minnesota, and while there procured a "ready made" divorce, with which she astonished her husband on her return. She also claimed a sixty-two old girl, but the fond father objected, and Judge Bruce, of Waterloo, has just decided against the mother in the latter matter.

Fishing at Grand Haven is good this season. There are 18 schucks running, and, with 20 nets, they catch 16,000 fish each night.

—Bishop Henni confirmed over 100 persons at the church in New Coeln, last Friday forenoon. A number of farmers formed a mounted escort to the Bishop, who was met at Caledonia and accompanied to the village, a distance of two miles and a half.

—The Democrat says nearly every household in Lancaster is, or has been, during the last month, visited with sickness. The teachers in the public schools have not been exempt, and the board concluded to close the schools for two weeks.

—The St. Croix Republican says the season took a lively tenor in the lumber business. Four horse teams are busy hauling supplies from that place to the woods; and large crews are building camps, hovels, opening new roads, skidding fallen timber, clearing the river of obstructions, etc. General activity pervades every department.

—The Delavan Republican says: Broom corn speculation assumes as much importance of which we may be proud. Over fifty tons of it are now stored in Delavan, on which the dealers hope to realize handsomely.

—Says the Richland Republican: "Last Sunday morning the steam saw mill and manufacturing establishment of this village was in ashes. Nothing but the lumber outside was saved. The engine and some other machinery can be fitted up, but the damage and loss are estimated at from $7,000 to $9,000."

INDIANA.

The Indianapolis Journal of the 6th says: "The suit instituted against ex-Auditor of State John D. Evans and his bondsmen for the recovery of $100,000 interest on the school fund alleged to have been wrongfully appropriated by some authorities with the consent of the Attorney General, but not by his express direction, having failed for that reason, Mr. Hanna filed a cross-complaint in the Superior Court on Saturday, against the same parties, in place of the one so dismissed. W. R. Harrison, Esq., of Martinsville; N. B. Taylor, Esq., of this city; Hon. Solomon Claypool, of Greencastle, and W. C. Wilson, Esq., of Lafayette, are associated with Mr. Hanna in the case, which will probably be the avant courrier of many more to be brought. It will come up for hearing at the December term."

—Six burglarizers in Owen County were taken into the woods on the 4th inst., whipped, and ordered to leave the county, by the regulators.

—A man there was murdered in the harvest field in Vanderburgh County. Corn piled up in sacks along the river for shipment has been disappearing mysteriously of late. A lot of stolen grain was discovered the other day on two flatboats, which had been anchored at a convenient distance from the shore.

—The term of Judge Lowry, of Fort Wayne, ran away Thursday evening last, severely injuring his wife.

—The extensive mill of the Stewart Paper Company, at Brookville, was destroyed by fire on the 6th. Loss, $75,000.

—William Waddington, a member of the Fort Wayne Common Council, died on the 6th inst.

KANSAS.

J. L. Gibbs, of Geneva, sowed 50 bushels of the ordinary kind of oats on 18 acres of land and harvested therefrom 1,485 bushels of oats—an average of 23 1-4 bushels to the acre.

—The town of Ellington, Dodge County, was visited by great fires last Thursday, the fire sweeping over two or three sections, burning fences, hay, &c. John Parker lost some 30 or 40 tons of hay and his stables.

—The bridge-builders commenced work on the bridge at Winona, last Saturday, and it is expected the gap will be filled in two or three weeks.

—Mr. T. F. Payne, of Rochester, on Thursday evening last, was assaulted and knocked down by a robber laying in wait for an opportunity to rob his gun store. Fortunately the blow, did not render Mr. Payne insensible, and, quickly rallying and drawing a revolver, he put the thief to flight.

—Another counterfeiter has been arrested in St. Paul, named Newman Hutchinson. He is connected with a respectable family living in Fillmore County.

KANSAS.

—A stock company has been organized to publish the proposed Kansas Magazine. The following are the names of the corporators: S. S. Prouty and H. King, Topeka; D. W. Wilder, Fort Scott; C. W. Babcock, Lawrence; Thomas Osborn, Leavenworth; John A. Martin, Atchison; D. M. Valentine, Ottawa; M. W. Reynolds, Parsons; W. H. Smallwood, Wathena.

—Miners are being brought on from Pennsylvania to work the Leavenworth coal shaft.

—Prof. Mudge thinks that underlying the Salina marshes is a mine of pure rock salt, which can be quarried like coal, as in the mines of Cheshire, England, and Cracow, Poland.

MISSOURI.

Kate McNamara, who murdered the negro Burns in Kansas City, has been arraigned, and, waiving an examination, was remanded to jail.

RAILROADS.

Articles of association of the Terre Haute & New Albany Railroad Company were filed with the Secretary of State of Indiana on Saturday last. The road is to be built from Terre Haute in a southeasterly direction through the counties of Vigo, Clay, Greene, Martin, Lawrence, Orange, Washington and Floyd to New Albany, and will be 103 miles long.

—Pullman palace cars have been placed upon the Missouri Pacific Road.

—The first engine for the Utah Northern, narrow gauge, has arrived at Ogden. It is named "John W. Young," after the President and General Superintendent. Iron and cars are soon expected, when track-laying will begin.

—The Atchison, Topeka, & Santa Fe Railroad has been placed under contract to Fort Larned, and its line determined to Fort Dodge on the Arkansas River. The public lands within its grant to the latter point have been withdrawn from market.

—The Denver (Col.) News of the 4th says: "We are gratified at being able to announce to-day that arrangements have been completed for the extension of the Rio Grande Road to the Arkansas River. A contract just received announces the successful negotiation of its bonds in Europe, and the necessary funds are thereby provided. Anticipating such a result, 36 tons of iron was ordered some time ago, and more than half of it has already left Liverpool. All will be afloat by the 12th inst."

—Pile-driving for the bridge of the Plymouth, Kankakee & Pacific Railroad, which is to span the Illinois River at Hennepin, was begun on the 30th ult. The bridge will be 1,600 feet in length, and its cost $70,000. The grading of the road through Putnam County to the point of intersection with the Peoria branch of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, at Bureau Junction, will be completed during the proximate month.

—An election was held in Woodson County, Kansas, on the 28th of October, to vote $175,000 in bonds to the Paola & Fall River Railroad. The proposition carried by a majority of 121. Work on the road from Paola to Neosho Falls will commence within ninety days. The arrangements for building the road have all been completed.

PERSONAL.

English papers record the arrival in Liverpool of Mr. W. H. Webb, the well-known shipbuilder and mail contractor, of the United States, and Mr. Body, Chairman of the Central Transit Ship Canal Company of Nicaragua, with the mission of moving the maritime governments of Europe to take part in the scientific investigation for a ship canal through the American Isthmus, and guaranteeing its neutrality when made.

—The Paris ultramontane organ, L'Univers, tells its readers that they had better subscribe for the relief of the Pope than for the Chicago sufferers.

—Azapius Hoschareenko publishes the Alaska Herald.

—The Boston Advertiser of the 4th says: "Mrs. Williams Mullaly, better known as Lina Wehse, who was one of the original Lydia Thompson troupe of burlesque actors, has become an American citizen, insolvent debtor, and her case was before the court of bankruptcy in this city yesterday. The claims against her are not heavy, and for the most part consist of those of other actors and musicians for salaries due them. Among these are the following: George Gaston, $15; J. Sheridan, $300; J. Mack, $400; E. Boyer, $200; Belle Howitt, $25; Sallie Dwyer, $200; Nellie Smith, $175; Cassie Troy, $245; George Atkins, $200; Messrs. Davenport and Travers, of Gilmore's band, $15 each; Ada Wray, $40; and Mrs. Charles Chase, $160. She owes 'Brick' Pomeroy $75 for hall rent in La Crosse, Wis., $400 in similar bills in other places, and $250 for hotel charges in Western Iowa. Then there is a bill of $115 in St. Paul for clothes, a dressmaker's account which amounts to $250, $750 in borrowed money, and other similar. Her assets are set down as consisting of wearing apparel worth $600, and books and prints $5. Her stock-in-trade as an actress is considered of no value."

—The Crown Prince of Prussia declined, last year, the dedication of ninety-two books and and fifteen works of art.

—Mr. James Barrett, the head porter of the Tremont House, Boston, is erecting a handsome granite-front block on Lincoln street, near Summer street. The building is intended for a hotel, of about eighty rooms, with restaurants on the European plan. Pretty well for a hotel porter, says the Commonwealth. "Jerry," the boniface of the Sherman Parker House, will soon have a residence on Beacon street.

—Cardinal Wiseman has at last had a monument erected over him in the cemetery at Kendall Green, England, and a framework of wood and glass keeps it from the weather. Above the the tomb is a recumbent figure of the Cardinal in ecclesiastical vestments, and on the sides are sculptured several scenes in his life. One represents a meeting of the Bishops; another, the Pope giving the brief of the restoration of the hierarchy to the Cardinal; another, the deathbed of His Eminence.

—M. Louis Blanc is looking haggard from his anxieties of the last year. He intends to live in Paris for the future, unless political changes again drive him into exile. He lost a great deal of personal property by the fires in Paris during the rule of the Communne, among which were some valuable manuscripts. He has received liberal offers to come to this country to lecture, but has not yet decided to accept.

—It is announced that Mr. D. D. Home, the spiritualist, who is now in Paris, was married, on the 17th ult., to Julie, youngest daughter of His Excellency, the late Hon. Basil de Glounseline, Consellor of State to the Emperor of Russia.

—Dr. Watson, the English clerical wife-murderer, has been found guilty of wilful murder.

—Princess Louise, during her late visit to Ireland, took a fancy to the fine poplins manufactured in Dublin, and gave extensive orders for goods of that kind for her future wardrobe.

—The Pacha of Egypt is hard at work in the matter of female schools, which he is bent on establishing throughout his dominions.

—Ida Lewis, since her marriage, bears the name of Wilson. The officers and only signs her maiden name, and through devotion to her invalid mother, still resides at Lime Rock, where she achieved her fame.

—Mrs. Wharton, with her daughters and several friends, was taken from Baltimore to Annapolis last week, and escorted by a retinue of officers to the county jail, where she will remain until brought out for trial, which has been fixed for the 4th of December next.

—A sentence of six months' imprisonment was imposed on an English collier named Bradley, who, having some grudge against his wife, locked the doors of the house so that she could not escape, and then deliberately incited a large bull dog to worry the unfortunate woman. The details of her frantic struggle with the brute, which were given in evidence before a magistrate, were unspeakably horrible. She was savagely bitten in many places by the dog, her husband doing his best to shut out all means of escape. At last, torn and bleeding, she escaped from the house, and Bradley was given into custody.

—The following is the salutatory of an Oregon editress: "We have served a regular apprenticeship at working, washing, scrubbing, patching darning, ironing, plain sewing, raising babies milking, churning, and poultry raising. We have kept boarders, taught school, taught music, written for the newspaper, made speeches, and carried on an extensive millinery and dressmaking business. We can prove by the police that we built a shanty and cultivated a garden patch. Those who had known him formerly, and who chanced to meet him since his reform, were edified by his meek demeanor and words of piety and humility."

According to a preconcerted plan, Coin appointed a meeting with Miner, and met him in a shanty last night, when the latter was to provide "plates" and a quantity of counterfeit money for the "queering" before they left. Coin pointed time Miner appeared in front of his house, and the detectives, who were in ambush, observed one Tom Ballard seize Avery from behind and pinion his arms to his sides, without attracting Miner's attention, and found in his possession counterfeit bills representing $5,000. Coin then appeared on the scene, and gave Miner the stipulated sum of $1,500, receiving in return two counterfeit plates, one on the National Bank of Poughkeepsie, and one on the Ninth National Bank of New York. The officers then rushed upon Miner, and after a desperate struggle, succeeded in securing him.

Binding their prisoners, as they thought securely, the officers entered the house and commenced a search. The first thing that attracted their attention was a trap-door, from which a flight of steps extended downwards. Passing down those they discovered a large cellar or artificial cave, completely filled with the working tools, dies, stamps, &c., of a gang of counterfeiters. While overhauling and examining these they heard a sudden scuffle, the rush of feet and a couple of pistol shots. Rushing hastily up the stairs they saw their game was gone!

While the others of the party were below, Officer O'Hara had been left to guard the prisoners, whose hands and feet were tied. In some manner unobserved by O'Hara, Miner had slipped his bonds, and taking advantage of a moment when the officer's back was turned, had suddenly sprung to his feet and felled him with a murderous blow from a stone. Before the latter had recovered his feet, he had cut the bonds of his companion. Then they seized not on the order of their going, but went at once, and with more celerity than dignity. On his feet, O'Hara fired a couple of shots at the fugitives, but probably without effect, as it was quite dark. An exhaustive search was made and descriptive telegrams sent to different stations, but up to a late hour (2 a. m.) nothing had been heard of them.

The Revival of Peshtigo.

From the Menominee (Wis.) Herald, Nov. 4.

Things are again assuming an appearance of life and activity after the recent conflagrations and destruction of property. The mill is now running night and day, with full force, to make up for lost time. It is expected that the stock of logs on hand will be cut up before the close of navigation. Dimension and other lumber is in active demand for Chicago; large bills are received daily. The rebuilding of Peshtigo village has commenced; carpenters from this place are constructing houses and temporary stores for the company and individuals. Mr. Wm. B. Ogden is on the ground, actively engaged in organizing matters, and promises every encouragement and assistance to parties to induce them to rebuild. Two of the recent sufferers are at the boarding house both badly burned about the face and hands. Large quantities of lumber and material are sent daily to the site of the late village, and several buildings of a temporary style are already erected, and with the aid of outsiders and the company Peshtigo will soon be rebuilt.

J. J. McGillis has taken the contract to rebuild the company's store on the old foundation. The building will be 30x70, two stories high, and is to be completed in thirty days. A small engine for machine shops and grist mill has been received. A saw 16-inch locomotive for the harbor road is ready for use, and iron rail enough has been received to repair the track. The water mill at the village is to be rebuilt this winter. Mr. Lister is intending to erect his foundry immediately. The bridge across the river will be completed this week. Real estate is again on the move, two lots having been sold this week near the corner of the village for $600 and $700, respectively. P. Bartells is making preparations to build his store on former site. A corral has been built for the safe care of stray stock. All the roads to the settlements have been repaired, and building material is being furnished to the farmers as fast as required.

THE PESHTIGO FIRE.

Additional Incidents.

From the Green Bay (Wis.) Advocate.

A citizen of Green Bay who passed through the fire at Peshtigo, and saved himself and a woman and children he happened to meet, by getting on a low spot of ground or in a ditch, and covering over with wet blankets, tells the story: They had got well covered up in this burrow, when a half-frantic woman rushed along with a great bundle in her arms. She had been well dressed, but her clothes were half burned off. She stopped and deposited her bundle, which consisted of a child and a lot of clothing, and then shrieked, "Great God, where is my baby!" As this the narrator sprang up, and saw, a few rods off, a baby in its night-clothes lyin. on the cold ground, kicking up his heels in great glee, while a billow of flame rolled over it, striking the ground beyond, and leaving the baby in the centre of a great circle of fire. The baby had slid out of the bundle unperceived by the mother in her haste. He immediately sprang for the child, and with it in his arms reached it. It is no wonder that the mother fainted when she secured the child.

Mr. Heath was one of the proprietors of the Peshtigo House. When the fire occured, his family, with the girls employed in the house, escaped from the hotel by a front, and went down to the low land below the house. Heath got into the river on the west side of the bridge and clung to the center pier of the bridge. The wind blew directly from the hotel to where he was. The hotel was near the south end of the bridge and on the west side of the street. At the north end of the bridge stood each end of the street was the Peshtigo Company's water mill, and the flames from that also blew directly to his position. From all it seems that the wind on the two sides of the river blew in exactly opposite directions. Heath was saved from the fact that being on the west side of the river the flames from the water mill divided at the pier and passed him on both sides. The bridge being on fire, he dare not swim through with the current, but when the fire on the bridge had got uncomfortably close, he took off his coat, pulled off his boots, and swam up stream to a place of safety. He had a very narrow escape from death, and has not yet recovered from breathing the hot air and smoke.

Here is one that the most vivid imagination cannot picture the scene of the calamity as bad as it actually was. In his opinion as many as 1,000 people lost their lives on the Peshtigo; that 752 bodies have been buried, and that many were entirely burned up. The names of half the dead will never be known. They are buried all over Peshtigo, and the boards that mark their graves are marked "2 unknown," "3 unknown," etc.

Much has been said of the intense heat of the fires which destroyed Peshtigo, Menekaunee, Williamsonville, etc., but all that has been said cannot give the stranger even a faint conception of the reality. The heat has been compared to that engendered by a blacksmith's forge, urged on by an obliged by a bellows-pipe, but even that would not account for some of the phenomena. For instance, we have in our possession a copper cent, taken from the pocket of a dead man in the Peshtigo Sugar Bush, which will illustrate our point. The cent has been partially fused, but still contains its round form, and the inscription upon it is legible. Others in the same pocket were partially melted off, and yet the clothing and the body of the man was not burned in the slightest. We do not know how to account for this, unless, as is asserted by some, the tornado and fire were accompanied by electrical phenomena.

The house, barn and fences of Mr. Hill of the upper Sugar Bush, were burned, and Mr. Hill and his family all lost. By the side of Hill's house was a narrow alley, just wide enough to drive through. In this alley stood a wagon and while the barn and fence were entirely destroyed, the wagon box was not even singed.

Alf. Phillip's house, in the upper Sugar Bush, was destroyed, but the family escaped. The fire struck the upper portion of the roof, apparently struck the house, which was 16 by 24 feet, and carried it bodily into the air, they think about 100 feet. In the air it burst into flames, and in a few minutes was entirely destroyed. The house was not on fire when it left the ground.

We do not believe that any other explanation of the great calamity can be made than that it was caused by fire, wind and electricity.

Incombustible Houses.

From the New York Evening Post.

The fire of Chicago has shown the great need there is of some incombustible material of sufficient durability and cheapness to be used generally for constructing buildings in cities. Isolated fire-proof blocks, so-called, cannot withstand the tremendous heat of a great fire when driven on by a strong wind. What is wanted is something which will not burn, from which to make our warehouses, stores, shops and houses, or every large city will be in continual danger of a fate like to that which has overtaken the great city of the Northwest.

It has been suggested that buildings made of concrete possess the desired qualities. The artificial stone known as concrete is generally made of six parts of sharp gravel, broken bricks or flints, one part of sand and one part of cement. The first two ingredients are to be found everywhere. The cement, when made artificially, consists of from twenty to twenty-five per cent of silica, with eight to seventy-five per cent of lime or of chalk, pure clay and the sand. The United States is the only country where nature has compounded the materials herself, furnishing the cement ready for use. It is found in large quantities in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Kentucky, Virginia and Ohio.

The buildings proposed are to be of concrete throughout. The floors are to be an artificial stone, made of cement and sand. Iron is to be used alone for supporting the floors and roof, and for binding the building.

Concrete buildings already have had their capabilities fully tested by use. The public buildings at Cherbourg, Marseilles, Toulon, Woolwich, Dover, Aldershott, and Eddystone, together with several on our own coast, are built of concrete. It is frequently used in England for foundation walls. The foundations of the Metropolitan Railway Company at West Brampton, the College of Surgeons, and Wellington Barracks, and many houses in Fall Mall, Lincoln's Inn Field, St. James' Park, and elsewhere in London, are built of it. In Spain, and in the southof France it is used for the construction of common houses. In Sweden and Northern Germany it is largely used for building purposes, the dwelling houses built of it having double walls, which protect the inmates from vermin and produce a more equable inside temperature.

Many advantages are claimed for concrete buildings over those made of brick and stone. People who have lived in them think them stronger, more even in temperature and more quiet (because it forms a good conductor of heat and of sound), and cheaper than ordinary houses. Above all, they are incombustible—no fire which would destroy the furniture in one room not affecting the contents of the next. A concrete house, in short, is a building of fire-proof compartments, so that it is said to be fully equal in every other respect to buildings made of ordinary materials.

The time must come when the kind of buildings now in vogue will give way to something better. Especially from the danger of fire better safeguards are needed. A block of concrete houses in Chicago, placed where the fire began, might have saved the city. A multitude of such buildings, scattered through the business portion of a city, would almost certainly prevent a fire of wide extent.

The importance of the subject is apparent. Americans have devised many witty inventions. Cannot some of them, in view of the catastrophe at Chicago and the danger of a similar fate which hangs over all our large cities, hit upon some method—by adopting concrete for building purposes, or finding out some other incombustible cheap, and abundant material—which may preserve our property, our precious things, and our lives, from destruction by fire?

An Illinois Murderer Caught in Texas.

From the Austin (Texas) Journal, Oct. 28.

One of our most efficient State policemen rendered Mr. Evans, City Marshal, most efficient service in ferreting out and enabling him to arrest, yesterday, an Illinois murderer, named Peter Harrison, for whom there is a reward of $250. The man was lodged in jail last night, and he acknowledges to the name of Peter Harrison, and fully answers to the telegraphic description received from D. C. Robbins, Captain of Police of Springfield, Illinois. We venture the assertion that no arrest has ever been made in this State that reflected so much credit upon the officer making it as does the above upon Marshal Evans and the State policeman who rendered him invaluable service in bringing to jail a man who, like thousands of others, had run to Texas to escape the vengeance of law in a distant State.

The Explosion at Youngstown, Ohio.

A correspondent of the Cleveland Herald gives the following particulars of the recent remarkable and fatal explosion at Youngstown, Ohio:

"On visiting the ruins a sight novel to us, and we presume never if ever seen before, presented itself—a huge furnace-stack toppled over and lying prone on its side, retained in shape by its iron casing. There were two furnace-stacks in close proximity, standing back to back; one hoisting-house on the south side, containing machinery for supplying both stacks. North of the hoisting-house is the stack-house, and north of that the cast-house, on which is a railway that connects the two stacks. In the cast-house are the boilers and hot blasts. The cast stack, or No. 1, is a bell-top, and so constructed that the top can be closed and gas utilized; the west stack, or No. 2, is an open top. Each stack is built upon, or is supported by, a circular row of iron columns some six or seven feet in height; inside the columns is the hearth, from which the melted metal is drawn off at stated periods into the sandmolds in the casting-house. The west furnace, or No. 2, had been working badly for some time, and it was designed to blow it out for repairs. Shortly after midnight, without anything unusual occurring to warn those in charge, the west furnace exploded at the hearth, or in the space within the iron columns, and on the west side, or at the front; and so great was the expansive force that the west brick wall of the casting house, some forty feet distant, was blown out, the roof raised and side walls cracked; the stack, or all that of it resting on the iron columns, toppled over in rather a southeast direction, brushing back No. 1 and falling down on the front of the engine house, throwing down part of the wall and blocking up the entrance. Part of the machinery was recovered. The hoisting house took fire immediately, and is totally burned. The stack house is partially burned. No estimate has yet been made of the loss, except a rough one by some of those connected with the furnace, which places it not to exceed fifty thousand dollars. Furnace men have different theories as to the cause of the explosion, but it is still a matter of conjecture. They remark, however, that it is without a precedent."

SAFES.
HERRING'S
SAFES
In the Late Fire!
MISCELLANEOUS.
In submitting the following evidence of the FIRE PROTECTING qualities of the HERRING'S Patent SAFES, we do not wish the public to understand that they is no limit to their endurance, nor that every Herring's Safe was thoroughout in the recent fire. Some were exposed to blasts of heat that melted and burnt up the very iron to it in a pudding furnace, some were cracked by the falling walls and iron girders—some were opened imprudently while hot or allowed to remain among the ruins until the heated bricks glowing like a furnace or baking the iron ores; but what we do refer to is the great number that have preserved their contents and saved the property of their owners.
Unlike all great fires that have preceded it, when the fiery blast swept by, there was no order to cool the heated ruins—the walls having mostly fallen before the material within was consumed. The fates were enclosed in these burning ovens until they cooled of themselves before they could be rescued.
In the seven hundred accidental fires previous to this, in which the Herring safes have come out of the contest triumphantly, and in the Thirty Years of their manufacture, we think no record of theirs is brighter than the success of so many of their number in this "Burning of Chicago."

Marine Items.

Messrs. Holt & Ensign, of Buffalo, are now having four iron steamers built at that city which, when completed, will be the largest and most valuable vessels afloat on the lakes, having an aggregate freight capacity of 9,000 tons each. They will be fitted up with all the modern improvements, and will be divided into five compartments, with water-tight iron bulkheads, and furnished with a patent valve bottom, which enables them to ship and discharge water ballast. Each engine will have a direct acting cylinder of twenty inches diameter and thirty-six inch stroke. The diameter of the condensing cylinder's will be forty inches. Each steamer will have eight boilers, and all complete will cost about $175,000, and will have a freight capacity of 2,000 tons. The keels from the Works are building two of the boats and the Shepard Works the others. All four will be completed next season. Two will be launched in April and the others in July.—Detroit Post.

—The marine statutes in regard to the protection of human life on board of steamers, it would appear, are not fully understood, or, at least, properly carried out. The law provides "that every steamer exceeding 200 tons burden and carrying passengers shall be provided with two good double-acting fire-pumps to be worked by steam; each pump shall be of sufficient capacity to contain not less than one hundred cubic inches of water; said pumps shall be placed in the most suitable part of the vessel for exercise or service, having suitable well-fitted hose to each pump of least one-half the vessel in length, kept at all times in perfect order and shipped and ready for immediate use."

—On the 3d inst., the schooner Jones ran into the schooner Mary Ann, off Manitou Island Marsh, carrying away the stern, steering gear, portion of the hull, and otherwise damaging the Jones so that she sank soon after getting into the lake. The Jones lost her jibboom.

—The steam pumps sent from Milwaukee to the scow Planet, sunk at Manistee, failed to free her, and chains are to be placed under her, preparatory to raising her with scows.

—The barge Dunbar, which went to the assistance of the propeller Missouri, on Monday, took off all the crew and passengers of the latter's fleet, yesterday. The Missouri was damaged but slightly, and went on her way.

—There is no new law as the entrance to the Maumee River that vessels above the inside bar are obliged to lighter, or take on a portion of their cargoes before getting out.

—The channel between the harbor piers at Manistee is partially obstructed by the wreck of the schooner Northern Belle.

—The propeller Potomac, damaged by going ashore at Sheboygan, has been repaired, and is now making her regular trips.

—A collision occurred in the South Branch, near the railroad bridge, yesterday, by which the schooner Northern Belle lost her jibboom.

—Major Anderson, ashore on Two Rivers Point, has contracted to remove the wrecks of Windsuite and Richards, of Manitowoc.

—The schooners Mary R. Perew and Jupiter are reported ashore at Kingston, Canada, for debt.

—The water in Lake Ontario is reported to be almost unprecedentedly low.

—A dredge is deepening the channel at Port Burwell.

Thanksgiving in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—Governor Baldwin, by his proclamation, appoints Thursday, the 30th of November, a day of thanksgiving and praise. He says: "While, as a people, we have enjoyed much of earthly happiness, and have been blessed with the abundant fruits of the earth, we have also been permitted to see the uncertainty of earthly possessions, and the overwhelming fires which have brought desolation to many families, and suddenly deprived thousands of our citizens of the rewards of their industry and toil. Let us lift up our hearts to God for His great mercies toward us, for the earnest sympathy and charity which have been so largely manifested, and for which our afflicted people. Let our thanksgivings find expression in acts of benevolence and deeds of charity to the unfortunate, the poor, and the needy; and let us invoke the Divine blessing upon our State and our nation."

Georgia Legislature.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—The Senate has passed resolutions to-day declaring the present city administration, and suggesting to the Ku Klux Committee to summon the Judges of the Superior Courts to Washington, the Solicitor-General to enable the committee to get all the facts of the late disorders.

The House passed a bill repealing the act to prevent the collection of taxes in 1867, 1868, and 1869.

—The marine statutes in regard to the protection of human life on board of steamers, it would appear, are not fully understood, or, at least, properly carried out. The law provides "that every steamer exceeding 200 tons burden and carrying passengers shall be provided with two good double-acting fire-pumps to be worked by steam; each pump shall be of sufficient capacity to contain not less than one hundred cubic inches of water; said pumps shall be placed in the most suitable part of the vessel for exercise or service, having suitable well-fitted hose to each pump of least one-half the vessel in length, kept at all times in perfect order and shipped and ready for immediate use."

—On the 3d inst., the schooner Jones ran into the schooner Mary Ann, off Manitou Island Marsh, carrying away the stern, steering gear, portion of the hull, and otherwise damaging the Jones so that she sank soon after getting into the lake. The Jones lost her jibboom.

—The steam pumps sent from Milwaukee to the scow Planet, sunk at Manistee, failed to free her, and chains are to be placed under her, preparatory to raising her with scows.

—The barge Dunbar, which went to the assistance of the propeller Missouri, on Monday, took off all the crew and passengers of the latter's fleet, yesterday. The Missouri was damaged but slightly, and went on her way.

—There is no new law as the entrance to the Maumee River that vessels above the inside bar are obliged to lighter, or take on a portion of their cargoes before getting out.

—The channel between the harbor piers at Manistee is partially obstructed by the wreck of the schooner Northern Belle.

—A collision occurred in the South Branch, near the railroad bridge, yesterday, by which the schooner Northern Belle lost her jibboom.

—Major Anderson, ashore on Two Rivers Point, has contracted to remove the wrecks of Windsuite and Richards, of Manitowoc.

—The schooners Mary R. Perew and Jupiter are reported ashore at Kingston, Canada, for debt.

—The water in Lake Ontario is reported to be almost unprecedentedly low.

—A dredge is deepening the channel at Port Burwell.

Thanksgiving in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—Governor Baldwin, by his proclamation, appoints Thursday, the 30th of November, a day of thanksgiving and praise. He says: "While, as a people, we have enjoyed much of earthly happiness, and have been blessed with the abundant fruits of the earth, we have also been permitted to see the uncertainty of earthly possessions, and the overwhelming fires which have brought desolation to many families, and suddenly deprived thousands of our citizens of the rewards of their industry and toil. Let us lift up our hearts to God for His great mercies toward us, for the earnest sympathy and charity which have been so largely manifested, and for which our afflicted people. Let our thanksgivings find expression in acts of benevolence and deeds of charity to the unfortunate, the poor, and the needy; and let us invoke the Divine blessing upon our State and our nation."

Georgia Legislature.
